

Vision Statement

Under the leadership of the Constitutional Conservative Party the vision for the United States of America will be a country united in its purpose of remaining free, independent, brave, truthful and admired by countries and governments around the world.

Our leadership will be feared by terrorist groups, swift and accurate justice will be handed down upon them. Mistreatment of Americans abroad will not be debatable, but acted upon promptly. This will be achieved by enhancing the strength of our armed forces.

The laws of our land are only paper and ink without a strong police force. Respect for law enforcement, emergency rescue, firefighters and government agencies, comes without question. As Americans we will teach our young the values of respect concerning individuals, property and community. Those given the duties of keeping the peace and safety of our communities will act knowing the public reveres their dedication and stands strongly behind them. Strong economic times will prove as it has in the past to lower crime across the United States and produce an environment with the aim of peace and prosperity. We Americans should again be a proud nation of hardworking, compassionate and ever productive people. We must continue to be the best the world has to offer. Achieving this will be a multifaceted interwoven project. Our higher education institutions will provide the best education for Americans. These American graduates will then be welcomed to an American workforce thriving upon American made goods and American produced energy. My independence plan will be enacted within the first year of my presidency, with the highest of priority. Made in America will once again adorn the shelves of American merchants and American energy will power our culture.

We must be free from excessive government regulation and free from excessive taxation so that we may enjoy our freedoms according to our constitutional promise of liberty, freedom and the pursuit of happiness.

With a population of over 300 million people it is very important that our food supply is grown on our own rich soil. Americans should determine the quality and the quantity of agricultural products produced. Farmers historically, are some of the hardest working individuals in our country. They must take advantage of weather conditions to harvest their crops in a timely manner for consumption by the entire nation. Americans depends on the success of the farmers.

The goal is set high for the Constitutional Conservative Party, however the goals were also set high at the founding of our Constitution. In the years since, Americans have achieved greatness, due in part to the transparent nature and pure truthfulness of the founding fathers of the Constitution.
